Description

A small tryout for a larger print [Cockwindow]contrasting a gloomy interior with a fine summer's day outside .

The title refers to the fact that the haycocks [it was 1977 , and Pat Reynolds , whom i helped to build them , was 84] from last week have sunk to flat shapes and turned brown , as the grass begins already to re-grow around them. Today's cocks are tall and green , the freshly -shaved field under them a pale colour .

The interior is largely made with a new scratching technique .
